

GCEJ APC Policy

The Global Clinical Engineering Journal (GCEJ) is an Open Access journal that publishes high-quality, timely, double-blind peer-reviewed manuscripts about the intersection of technology, engineering, and informatics related to health, wellness, disease management, and patient-care outcomes around the world. In line with the principles of Open Access publishing, the Journal aims to ensure that all papers published are freely available to researchers, practitioners, and the public, without financial, legal, or technical barriers, and without delay (No embargo period and no requirement for users to register to read content). Following the DOAJ (Directory of Open Access Journals) and the BOAI (Budapest Open Access Initiative) definition, the Open Access policy of GCEJ promises that we allow for immediate free access to the work and permits any user to read, download, copy, distribute, print, search, or link to the full texts of articles, crawl them for indexing, pass them as data to software, or use them for any other lawful purpose, without asking prior permission from the publisher or the author.

With the increasing volume of submissions to the Journal, we've recruited additional editorial staff to maintain the speedy and high-quality review of the submissions. However, our sponsorship is not sufficient to cover the increased operating costs, therefore the Editorial Office has decided to transition from Diamond OA to Gold OA, effective April 1, 2025, in order to ensure sustainability and continued growth. All APC fees for submissions received before 31 December 2025 will be waived. Authors from Low-income Countries will continue to receive support, encouraging their engagement with GCEJ.

After changing from Diamond to Gold OA, the Global Clinical Engineering Journal will continue to provide high-quality peer review and editorial services to ensure manuscripts' fair and quick review decisions. Furthermore, this new model will enable us to remain sustainable and aim to further enhance the Journal's Open Access services and promote academic exchange and collaboration.

The New Model Will Include:

- To ensure unrestricted access to content and maintain high publishing standards, an Article Processing Charge (APC) is applied to papers accepted after peer review (more details may be found in the table below). This fee covers costs such as copy-editing, typesetting, production, content archiving, and journal management.
- Certain non-peer-reviewed content, like Letters to the Editor, Editorials, Corrigenda, and Addenda, is published without charge.
- A Gold OA policy that will involve corresponding adjustments to authors' Article Processing Charges (APCs). Please pay attention to the latest Submission Guidelines and Instructions for Authors.
- Continuing the current practice, readers will still be able to access the content of published papers without charge.

- The Journal will still provide financial support for authors and waive all APCs for submissions before 31 December 2025. Meanwhile, we will continuously support those authors in need, especially from the low- and middle-income countries. We aim to become the unique journal that concentrates solely on the field of clinical engineering and provides the best publication services to all authors, including the majority of clinical engineers, doctors, and basic researchers worldwide. Many of the authors may not have enough sponsorship from their institutions and considering this fact, the Journal deems it appropriate to give a helping hand and remove the financial barrier when publishing high-quality papers to accelerate the academic exchange in the circle.
- This change in OA type WILL NOT AFFECT ALL PUBLISHED PAPERS, nor incur any additional charges for authors who already submitted manuscripts before 2025.

Withdrawal Issues

In GCEJ, submission withdrawal refers to various scenarios, including the removal of a new submission, a manuscript under peer review, an accepted paper, or a paper in production from the online system. If authors withdraw a submission for unethical or unreasonable reasons, a withdrawal fee equal to 50% of the current APC will be charged. Withdrawal is also possible for accepted papers that have not yet been formally published, including newly accepted manuscripts and Papers in Press. However, authors should be aware that no refunds of the APC will be issued if an accepted paper or Paper in Press is withdrawn due to academic misconduct, ethical violations, or without providing any justification.

GCEJ is committed to advancing scientific, engineering, and clinical knowledge by fostering global collaboration. Our contributors, readers, and editorial team span diverse regions and perspectives worldwide. As such, our focus remains solely on the merit of the applied research, its scientific integrity, and its contribution to the advancement of healthcare technologies.
